[BEGIN LOG]

Dr. Koh: Vitals are in optimal condition. My recommendation is to go light today. They likely won't be able to handle any strenuous physical strain. Go for something less physical, maybe? Or you can rest today. It still needs some time to heal since its last...
Dr. Santos?

*(Dr. Santos clutches at her notes and looks up at Dr. Koh from her seat.)

Dr. Santos: Yes? What?

Dr. Koh: Did you hear what I said?

Dr. Santos: Optimal condition, but nothing physical today. I got it. We'll use psychological cognitohazards to—

Dr. Koh: Do you?

Dr. Santos: Excuse me?

Dr. Koh: Do you really got it, Sylvia?

(Dr. Santos buries her head in her laptop.)

Dr. Santos: I've done this nearly a hundred times. I think I know what to do.

Dr. Koh: I'm not your Medical Supervisor, so it's not my place to say, but you need at least a day's break from this.

Dr. Santos: You know that's not happening.

(Dr. Santos pauses.)

Dr. Santos: You know Goode won't be happy with that.

Dr. Koh: He takes days off, doesn't he? He's not even in today. Why does he get to do that and you don't?

(Dr. Santos stands up.)

Dr. Santos: Do you think I like this, Lindsey?

(Dr. Santos points at her face.)

Dr. Santos: What workplace allows something like this to happen?

(Dr. Koh stares.)

Dr. Koh: That's not what I meant.

Dr. Santos: Then what are you trying to say?

Dr. Koh: Did he do that?

(Dr. Santos pauses, then looks away.)

Dr. Santos: Doesn't matter anymore. I just want this project to be finished.

Dr. Santos: Every single night before sleep, I hear h- ...the subject's voice. I can't get them off my mind.

Dr. Santos: Goode says it deserves this.

(Dr. Koh takes a breath, tightly grips her clipboard and approaches Dr. Santos. She sets her hand on Santos' shoulder.)

Dr. Koh: But you don't.

Dr. Koh: You need to tell the Ethics Committee.

Dr. Santos: I have.

Dr. Santos: Several times. Nothing is getting through.
