

WALKER CONFESSION

Excerpt of Interest from Walker's Interrogation:

Right, yes. I'll get to the point.

Something is happening at Site-17. Something they don't want you, me, or possibly even the O5s knowing about.

Site-17 was the only site where not a single member of senior staff responded to any of the emails I sent demanding the transfer of certain anomalies. Upwards of 200 emails total, over the last few years, using every email I had, and I never received a word in response.

It's possible they somehow knew my emails were fraudulent, though I believe if that was the case, you would have started your investigation years ago. You all have been looking for an excuse to take ETTRA down a peg for years, so I can only assume that Site-17 didn't alert you to my actions at all, which is strange, right? Why would Site-17 be stonewalling requests from ETTRA, the Ethics Committee, O5 representatives, or other sites if they weren't attempting to hide something from the rest of the Foundation? They're the only site that's outright refused to allow ETTRA physical access to their site, and the only site that's gotten in a protracted fire fight with our agents. Certainly makes you wonder what's so important that they'd rather risk and inter-foundation conflict than allow us into their site, doesn't it?

I don't have the full picture, but I do have more evidence than what I just shared with you right now. I need a guarantee that whatever cell you throw me in will look more like an office than a room in the D-Class wing. If I'm going to be the GOC's scapegoat, I might as well throw my lot in with those deciding my fate. I think my work with ETTRA is a pretty good example of the skills I can bring to the table within your organization.

Just take a look. Walker-LTE-ET-44
