

TOGETHER IN A UNITED FRONT

Most esteemed colleagues,

When I was first granted the honor of having the position as your Site Director, I swore a vow to ensure that this facility remains as efficient as it could possibly operate. Keeping this facility efficient has been my work for the greater part of the last decade. As a result, I have been seen as cold — I have been seen as aloof by people I have sworn to lead and protect. And I am disappointed in that. I am disappointed in myself.

Allow me to make this up to you. We are in a position where our work can mean something to the things we care about. We are here for the betterment of humanity. Most importantly, we are together in this endeavor. I am with you, my friends.

Site-17 is our home. Not only that, it remains as the largest containment site the Foundation has left to offer. It is a responsibility which we do not hold lightly.

Our Foundation is besieged on all sides. We lost ourselves. We are threatened by an organization of barbarians which wishes for nothing more than the total eradication of our way. The most unfortunate truth of the matter is that these threats have viciously spread their reach into our very own ranks, allowing them to most prominently come from within.

Will we allow this cancer to proliferate here in our home? Here in our Site-17?

Will we allow this corruption to extinguish all that we stand for as people of science? My answer should be clear to you already. The question is whether or not you would do the same. Will you stand with us, united in heart and mind, as true sons and daughters of this Foundation?

I invite you, my friends, to stand tall besides one another and shape Site-17 into the facility that we deserve. Whether you're a member of staff, or an anomalous resident in our care, we are all part of a United Front.

May the Foundation press ever onwards,

Thomas Graham

Site-17 Site Director

Secure, Contain, Protect.